Course Description
This course is an introduction to the history of Western art from the Renaissance to the present. Organized more or less chronologically, the course focuses on the art of Europe and North America. Students will study architecture, sculpture, painting, printmaking, and other media, and will analyze canonical works by artists such as Michelangelo, Bernini, Rembrandt, David, Manet, Picasso, and Pollock. The course aims to give students the tools to describe the forms of works of art as well as to analyze works in relation to social, religious, political, economic, and cultural issues affecting their production and reception. Topics we will explore include: artists’ techniques and materials, patronage and exhibition, artistic tradition and innovation, women artists and the representation of gender roles, and European artists’ appropriation of global art forms. Furthermore, the course will address various methodological approaches to art history.

Class meetings will consist of lectures illustrated by PowerPoint presentations, as well as discussions. These will be supplemented by a special, required field trip to the Museum of Fine Arts, Houston, during our regular class time on Wednesday, April 5.

Student Learning Outcomes
Students in the course will:
1) learn to recognize and identify well-known works of art produced in Europe and North America from the fourteenth to the twentieth century;
2) learn to describe and evaluate the formal characteristics of works of art using specialized vocabulary;
3) learn to analyze and interpret works of art in their historical contexts;
4) gain familiarity with research tools in art history;
5) and develop skills of critical reading and oral and written communication, particularly the ability to write an essay that advances an original argument.
Online Resources
The Blackboard website will be an essential component of the course:
https://blackboard.stthom.edu/

I will use Blackboard to make accessible readings, PowerPoints, and other course documents. If you have any difficulty finding these resources on the site, please let me know right away. In addition, I will use your UST e-mail address to contact you outside of class time. Therefore, I ask that you check it regularly.

Course Requirements
Completion of UST’s Plagiarism Tutorial with a passing grade (70% or more) is a course requirement. Students must provide their certificate of completion for the course, dated this academic year. Please use the following link to access the tutorial:
http://www.stthom.edu/libtraining/ustplagiarism/ustplagiarism.htm

The textbook for the course is:

It is available for purchase at the campus bookstore. Note that you only need volume 2. The textbook provides a chronological narrative and illustrates many of the works we will study. Further required readings, chosen to stimulate class discussion, will be posted on Blackboard. All but two are primary sources that offer direct insight into the production and reception of works of art.

Reading responses (1 ½ pages) are due three times during the semester. The class before a reading response is due, I will ask specific questions for you to answer in relation to the readings. Your response must be typed, double-spaced, and printed: I do not accept e-mailed work. Since the point of the responses is to prepare for class discussions, they must be done on time.

Note: Regardless of whether a reading response is assigned, students are expected to read all required readings by the due date and to come to class ready to discuss them. Please print out all the readings posted on Blackboard and bring them to class with you.
The midterm exam will consist of slide identifications with short-answer questions, a vocabulary section, and comparative essays.

The final exam will be composed of slide identifications with short-answer questions, comparative essays, and a comprehensive essay. Questions for the comprehensive essay will be distributed beforehand.

Two essays will be assigned: they will require students to examine art objects in Houston. Although the assignments emphasize visual analysis, in order to develop your thesis and interpret the works you will need to do some research. Students enrolled at the 3000 level will write longer essays.

The field trip to the Museum of Fine Arts, Houston is scheduled during class time. It is required, because the examination of original art objects is fundamental to the teaching of art history.

Course Policies

Attendance: Students are expected to attend every class meeting. The only acceptable reasons for missing class are: religious observance, illness, family emergency, and co-curricular activities such as intercollegiate athletics. In the case of absence for religious reasons, please let me know in advance. In the case of a medical or family emergency, provide a note from a doctor or counselor. In the case of co-curricular activities, a coach or other leader must submit an excused absence form. Students who miss more than one class without permission will have their participation grade lowered by one point (out of ten) for each absence. Students who arrive late will likewise have their participation grade lowered.

Food: Please do not eat in class.

Laptops and Cellphones: Please turn off and put away your laptops and phones.

Late Work: Assignments are due at the beginning of class on the specified date. Reading responses will not be accepted late. If you fail to submit a response on time, your grade for the work will be zero. Essays submitted later on the day they are due will be considered one day late. A student will lose a grade step for each day an essay is late. (An example of a grade step is the difference between a B and a B-.) Except for the final exam, no work will be accepted after the last day of class.

Academic Integrity: The UST Student Handbook states that “every offense against academic honesty seriously undermines the teaching-learning process for which the University exists”. In keeping with this view, students are expected to be honest when taking their exams, cite sources in their essays, and submit their own work. Students may not submit work for one course that has already been used for another course. Cheating, plagiarizing, or any other form of academic dishonesty will lead either to a mark of zero for the work in question or to the grade of ‘F” for the course, and to a formal University procedure.

You must cite all sources used, whether published or online. If you are unsure about what to cite or how to cite it, please see me during my office hours. You can also find links to citation style Disability Services: Students with a suspected or documented disability may be eligible to receive academic accommodations. Faculty must be notified that exam accommodations have been approved well before the exam. For more information, see the Disability Services FAQ on the UST website or contact the Coordinator, Tiffany Devereux. She may be reached by e-mail at deveret@stthom.edu or by phone at 713-525-2169 or 6953.
